

Water Management Billing Cycle

Why use the Avdata Billing Service?

What Avdata does

Avdata Australia is a billing agent for hundreds of Australian facilities. We offer flexible, efficient and cost-effective services that can help you to recover some of the costs of running your standpipes, recycled water, effluent discharge and other water management operations.

Avdata can manage the whole billing process for you. We provide electronic keys which allow your customers to access and/or switch on your facilities and equipment, we keep track of who is responsible for paying charges associated with individual keys, we calculate usage charges and we send invoices to your customers. We receive payments, handle queries from customers, and provide you with usage reports and a single monthly payment. Or we can customise our service to meet your specific requirements.

Advantages for Avdata clients

- Flexibility – you design the system you need, with our support and advice based on two decades of experience.
- Access to data – detailed reports of facility usage and customer account activity are available to you online at any time, which is important not just for revenue accounting but also for management and planning.
- Fewer administrative headaches – we can do the billing, handle the queries, receipt the payments, and maintain a comprehensive database of keyholders, so your staff don't have to.
- Equipment – Avdata supplies the controller, modem, control panel and keys which you need to control and monitor use of your facilities.
- Customer convenience – a single key can be set to allow access to any or all of your facilities, and the keyholder receives just one bill each month.
